CHAPTER IV

The Mystery of the Rifles. An hour after John Moreland had sent his ten rifle builets whining over the head of Ben Littleford, every Moreland and every Littleford in the valley knew of the declaration of war. And each man of them oiled his weapons and put them in better working

When Dale went to bed, there was too much on his mind to render sleeping easy for him. Tomorrow he would have to help in the fight against the Littlefords, kinsmen of the young woman who had saved him, without doubt, from death by the murderous rifle of the mountaineer Goliath-or break his word fiatly. It was a poor return for such a favor! The longer he thought over the dilemma, the more perplexed he became

He thought, too, of the everlasting wonder, the tall of John Moreland's bedtime prayer. How a man could go down on his knees and ask the blessings of the Almighty upon men whom he meant to fight the next day was a thing that Bill Dale could not under-

It was after midnight before he slept. He woke at the break of day, arose and dressed himself, and went out. Going toward the flower-filled front yard, he found himself facing a very angry John Moreland.

"What's the matter?" he asked. "Matter enough," clipped the mountaineer. "Bill Dale, I'm a-goln' to ax a question, and I want the truth.

"You'll get the truth if you get anything. Shoot the question." "All right. What do you know about

'About as much as you know of the left hind wheel of Ben Hur's charlot.

What's wrong with it?"

Moreland's Eyes Were Steady and Cold.

cold. He thrust his hands into the pockets of his cordaroy trousers. Then his face softened a trifle. "I reckon I ought to ax yore pardon," he said in a low voice. "Ye see, my gun's plumb gone!" "You had it only last night," Dale said. "Did it disappear-"

"Whilst I slept," cut in the hillman, "Both o' my guns is gone. And Luke's repeater is gone, and so is Cale's, and we hain't got nothin' at all to fight them d-d Littlefords with!"

"Gope!" Dale exclaimed wondering ly and-it seemed to him-asininely.

"It must ha' been the Littlefords, I guess," frowned Moreland. "Fo' because who else would ha' done it? But to save the life o' me I cain't see how they got in and took my rifle without wakin' me up, Bill Daie, I slept twicet as light as a sick mouse."

Within ten more minutes, every man of the Morelands was gathered there inquiringly. "What's that?" at the house of their chief-and every man of them had lost their weapons during the night!

John Moreland called Dale aside and said to him:

"You're high on the good side o' them thar triffin' Hecks, and, so fer as they know, you ain't int'rested in the feud. I wisht you'd go down thar and see By and his mother, and see ef ye can find out whar our rifles

When Dale had gone off down the dusty oxwagen road, Caleb Moreland climbed a tall ash that grew behind his father's cabin and kept a watch toward the Littleford side of the river. He saw a group of then standing in Ben Littleford's cabin yard, and noth-

A little more than a quarter of an hour after Dale left John Moreland he entered by the gateless gateway at the cabin of the Hecks. It was a diinpidated place, and it stood not far from the river. By sat in the front doorway; he was lazily cutting a new midday sun mark in the place of the worn old one. Behind him sat his mother, who was busily knitting a gray yarn stocking.

The moonshiner looked up and startit quickly to his feet. "Hi thar, Bill, o'd boy!" he greeted laffy. "My gosh but ye've com at the right time, shore. We're a gotn'

to have young squirrels fo' dinner, and a b'iled hamshank with string beans, and campbread made with the yeller o' hen aigs. Live whilst ye do live, says I. Come right in, Bill, old boy.' "La, la, la!" cried Granny Heck looking over the brass rims of her spectacles. "How glad I am to see ye, Mr. Bill! Come right in and tell us

Bill Daie crossed the threshold and accepted a creaking chair. His eyes took in at a sweeping giance the homemade dining table with its cover of red olicioth, the broken cast-iron stove, the strings of dried peppers hanging on the log walls, the broken stillworm lying in the corner.

"The Littlefords," said Dale, "have declared war.

"Sakes!" laughed the old woman. "We knowed that last night when we beered them ten shots." "And all the Moreland rifles are missing." Dale watched the effect of his words. "What!" the Hecks cried in one voice. Their surprise seemed genuine. Dale pressed the subject further and learned only that if they knew anything toncerning the disappearance of the rifles they were not going to tell. Then he started homeward by way of the pool above the blown-down syc-

There was a chance that Ben Littleford's daughter would be there fishing. Dale told himself, and it was barely possible that she could throw some light on the mystery of the rifles.

He crossed the river by means of the prostrate tree. Babe was there; she sat on the stone on which she had been sitting the morning before; her back was to him, and her bare feet were in the water to her ankles. Dale went up close, stopped and gathered a handful of violets and dropped them over her shoulder and into her lap.

Babe looked around and smiled. "What luck, Miss Littleford?"

"Nothin'. I don't much want to ketch anything," she said slowly, a spirit of sadness in her musical voice. "I-I jest come off down here to be whar it's quiet. You ought to hear the noise at pap and the rest of em is Dale narrowed his eyes. "Are theyer, making a noise? And what about?" "My goodness gracious alive! You'd think so ef ye could hear 'ers! Y'ought to hear pap cuss John Moreland!" She shrugged her pretty shoulders, lifted the small end of her rod to its proper place, and went on, "I never did see pap half as mad as he was when he got home last night from

"Mad at you?" asked Daie.

"Mad at You?" Asked Dale.

"No; but he would ha' been ef he hadn't ha' had all his madness turned ag'in them Morelands. You knowed about pap's trouble on yan side o' the river last night?"

"Yes, I knew about that," Dale answered slowly. "But John Moreland thought your father was my antagonist of yesteray."

"An-antagonist?" Babe muttered

"I mean Adam Ball, y'know." "Oh. That's what I told pap. But pap he wouldn't believe it, and he won't never believe it-'cause he don't want to believe it. I told him 'at John Moreland wasn't a-shootin' to hit, and he wouldn't believe that, neither. Pap's as hard-headed as a brindle cow, when he gits a fool notion on him. Whatwhat did them Morelands say about their guns a-bein' gone?"

Daie straightened. "How did you find that out?" "Don't matter how!" She smiled almost saucily. "I knowed about it afore you did, Mr. Bill Dale. Don't you think whoever done it done a kind nothing with which to defend themselves?" Dale didn't know much about these hill feuds. "No. Miss Littieford, I can't say that I think it was a kind thing to do.

Miss Littleford arose and faced Dale. Her cheeks were flushed. "Has the inemy come?" she de-

"All right," the young woman broke in sharply. "If the inemy hain't come, what're you a-kickin' about?"

Her brown eyes were full of fire. They defied, and they withered, and Bill Date suddenly felt that he was smaller and of less account in the scheme of things than that uneducated, wildly superb creature that stood

"I beg pardon," Dale said evenly. "I didn't mean to offend, y'know." His quick contrition struck the girl. Her mouth quivered. She dropped her fishing-rod, and began to toy absently with the end of her long, thick plait of brown hair.

"I've seed so much o' this fightin'," she murmured tremulously, "that It makes me go to pieces. I ought to beg yore pardon, mebbe, and I d-do. . I've seed a good many fine, strong brought home dead or a-dyin from the Moreland bullets. And the Littlefords has killed Morelands, too. One side about as many as t'other, I reckon. I'd be glad to give my life to stop it!"

"I'll help you, if I can," Dale told "Perhaps we can make friends of the Morelands and your people."

"You don't know what a hard thing it'd be," she replied tearfully. "The two sets has hated each other ever sence I can rickellect. And you won't be here very long, I reckon."

"I may be here for the rest of my life," said Dale.

"is it the coal?" inquired Babe. "Fartly-yes, it's the coal. I'm going to develop it for the Morelands." Babe looked at him with a tluy herald of hope to her eyes. Before she could speak again there came from somewhere back in the meadow the sound of her father's voice-

"Babe! U-oh, Babe!" "Comin'I" cried the girl, half turn-"We'll try to make 'em friends; we'll try. Old Major Bradley, he'll be up here afore long to spend the summer, and he'll help us. He's a mighty good man; you're shore to like him. He gen'ally stays with us when he's You go easy with John Moreland! But when ye git him, ye'll have 'em all. I'll work on pap. The' ain't no danger o' trouble right now, any-ways. Goodby, Bill Dale!"

"One moment, Miss Littleford," and he took a step after her. "Are you sure there's no danger right now?" Babe halted, faced about nervously. and smiled a little.

"Don't call me 'Miss' no more," said she. "It makes me feel old. Call me what everybody else calls me, ef ye don't mind. Why, every one o' the Littlefords lost their rifles last night the same as the Morelands did! Meet me here at sundown, and I'll tell ye about it. Goodby, Bill Dale!" "Goodby, Babe!" he smiled.

Vote For The People's Judge

Hon. Carl Henderson

He has dispatched the business of the Court in Crittenden County in a third of the term, thus reducing it from three weeks to four days or less.

He has saved tens of thousands of dollars of the people's money in jury and witness fees.

He has saved an untold amount of the people's time in getting cases tried promptly; witnesses stay one day instead of four or five; jurors stay 2 or 3 days instead of 12 or 18; and all because Judge Henderson thinks more of the rights of the people than he does of the delays of the lawyers.

He is fair, impartial, upright, able and fearless.

He enforces all the laws all the time. His record for affirmances by the Court of Appeals is above the average of Circuit Judges of the state.

Illinois Central System's Territory Leads

The Nation In Production

The Illinois Central System, extending from the Great Lakes and the upper Missouri River valley along the Mississipi River to the Gulf of Mexico, serves the most productive district in the world. This wonderfully fertile territory drained by the nations three greatest water systems-the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio river -furnishes the raw material to feed clothe, shelter and warm many millions of the world's population.

The fourteen states which are directly served by the Illinois Central System's 6,233 miles of railway lines are:

Alabama Arkansas Illnois Indiana Iowa

Kentucky Louisiana Minnesota Mississippi Nebraska South Dakota Tennessee Wisconsin

These fourteen states are less than 30 percent of the number in the NUnion. Their territory of 797,793 square miles is only 26.3 per cent of the total area of the United States. But how much greater are the percentages which show their leadership in the substantial things of the worl!

Forty-five per cent of all the farms in the United States are located in these fourteen states, and in 1920 they produced crops valued at 39.2 per cent of the total valuation of all the farm crops in the country. The farms in these fourteen states are equipped with farm buildings valued at 46 per cent of the valuation of all the farm buildings of the country, and with farm machinery valued at 46.3 per cent of the nation's total.

In practically every farm crop these fourteen states as a whole take a pre-eminent leadership, despite the great variety of climate and soils encountered between South Dakota and Louisiana. In 1920 they produced 65.9 percent of all the corn. 30.7 percent of all the wheat, 62.4 percent of all the oats, 45.3 percent of all the barley, 49.1 percent of all the rye, 30.9 percent of all the white potatoes, 45.6 per cent of all the sweet potatoes, 39.8 percent of all the tame hay, 61.3 percent of all the wild hay, 27 percent of all the cotton 63.7 percent of all the rice and 42.5 per cent of all the tobacco raised in the United States

The Illinois Central System's territory also is a leader in livestock production. The fourteen states on January 1, 1921, contained 46.8 percent of all the horses, 49 percent of all the mules, 43.1 percent of all the cattle, 19.3 percent of all the sheep and 62.2 percent of all the swine on the farms of the United States. The aggregate value of livestock in the fourteen states was 41.4 percent of the aggregate value of the livestock on all the farms in the country.

In addition to farm leadership the fourteen states served by the Illinois Central System produced 37.5 percent of all the lumber and 34.5 per cent of all the bituminous coal produced in the country in the year 1920.

The Illinois Central System is proud of the magnificent territory which it directly serves with transportation. Transportation is the factor which gives real value to the excellent production of these states. We are constantly endeavoring to contribute our part toward making this territory of even greater productive value. especially by rendering a service of satisfaction to our patrons. We are eager to be of service because that is the end for which the Illinois Central exists.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM President, Illinois Central System.

WHAT THE COURIER JOURNAL SAID ABOUT JUDGE CARL HENDERSON, THE PEOPLE'S JUDGE:

The Courier Journal is the leading Democratic newspaper

In its issue of January 17, 1921, it pointed out the record of Judge Carl Henderson and Commonwealth's Attorney Charles Ferguson as a model for oher Circuit Judges and Commonwealths Attorneys in the state.

The plain facts of the case are shown to be that Judge Henderson and Mr. Ferguson have saved the money of the taxpayers and the time of the People by their methods of holding Courts in a business like way, until the total saved runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Read what the Courier Journal says:

"The remarkable record of Judge Carl Henderson and Commonwealth's Attorney, Charles Ferguson, of the Fourth Judicial District in holding down jury fees and collecting fines and forfeitures is held up by the State Inspector and Examiner, Henry E. James, as a model for Court officials of other districts in his report on Livingston County where petit jurors did not average more than a week apiece during the two year period from Novmber 1918, to December, 1920.

The Inspector attributes the good showing to care in arranging the dockets so that cases may be tried the day they are set, instead of compelling witnesses and jurors to wait around from day to day. Witnesses in Livingston County rarely drew more than one day's attendance. The State pays the jury fees and a commission to the Trustee of the Jury Fund and for the 120 counties last year it amounted to $294,862, of which $236,946 was paid petit jurors.

The condition in Livingston is typical of all the Fourth District Counties and the records in the Auditor's office shows that for the last year the four counties of the District, Caldwell Crittenden, Hopkins and Livingston, averaged $441.50 for petit jurors, compared to an average of $1,974.50 for the State and $729.50 for all jurors, compared to an average of $2,457.20 for the State.

Grand juries are limited to a week unless the time is extended but the Fourth District counties were among the lowest in the cost of grand juries. A comparison of their petit jury fees the last year with some of the smaller counties of the State is illuminating

The Courier Journal is interested principally in money saved the State. But think of the saving to the citizens of this district in time

Witnesses once had to hang around the court house day after day at $1.00 per day while absent from work which in many cases would have paid them $5.00 or $6.00 per day. That is all over under Judge Henderson.

Jurors once had to spend weary weeks in town at $2.00 per day, which scarcely paid their expenses, while the farm and crops went to rack and ruin in their absence.

And that is all over under Judge Henderson.

HOW DID HE DO IT?

He conducted his court just as you would conduct your business. His sole desire to see that the laws were enforced and every man received justice-and he didn't find it necessary to put up with the lawyers' delay to get these things done.

After the lawyers understood that Judge Henderson meant business, they got busy too.

And the Courier gives you the result in facts and figures. And there are other splendid results of Judge Henderson's administration.

We have peace and good order in Hopkins County.

Every man knows, that when he comes before Judge Henderson's Court, he will pay prompt Penalty for any violation of the law of which he has been guilty. Every citizen from the humblest to the richest knows that he can take his case to Judge Henderson's Court and get equal and exact justice, a prompt trial and a fair one. These things have made the Circuit Court of this district and take Kentucky Schools out of the smother of Partisan Politics

The leaders and thousands of prominent men and women in both the Democratic and Republican parties throughout the state recommend it. Editors, statesmen, educators urge it.

It is not a question of politics.

All the progressive men and wom n in both parties agree that it is the thing to do-LET'S DO IT.

A Million School Children In Kentucky Cry Out To You

Our existing educational system is old, obsolete and rendered inefficient by the manner in which our political system compels its administration. Progress has outgrown it. Other states have made the change and improved their educational systems 100 per cent by it. Kentucky children deserve no less.

This advertisement is paid for by patriotic Democratic and Republican men and women of Kentucky who want the million school children of Kentucky to enjoy the benefits of an educational system equal to other states.
